

ABSTRACT

Please add the following abstract:

The invention concerns a reactor system suitable for carrying out chemical reactions, having one or more common reactant feed lines, two or more single unit operated reactor sections and one or more common product discharge lines.

The reactor system is especially suitable for the production of hydrocarbons from synthesis gas over a catalyst.